NEWS AND GOSSIP OF MATRONS, MAIDS AND MEN. WILL WHITE HOUSE LEVEES BEGIN WITH NEW YEAR? DINNERS, TEAS, DANCES, RECEPTIONS AND WEDDINGS

How the usual official program of White House hospitalities is to be ried out this winter, if that ultimatum has been reached, is as yet a matorial of great conjecture, but so were many other problems which this admination has faced and has also successfully dealt with within the past ar. The chances are, therefore, that a satisfactory answer will be found the varied sided questions which are bound to come up with every new long and at least will not cause any dull days here.

The debutante world, which by the way increases and decreases in about the same ratio as the budding season approaches, is already having a glimpse of its future prominence. It is sure to be so with of the methods of our social proceedings, which were made to neet a particular emergency and then grew into customs as strong as laws on the statute books, because nothing else happened in our international relations necessitating a change. The world has shifted its modern times. Governments giving their whole attention and nergy to war have naturally no time for official pleasurings, so that when winter program is on here this will be probably the only nation the yorld over where the people and the officials to whom the ruling power has en given can come together in a formal as well as a sociable way. Proeeding as if the world was at peace is a perfectly easy transaction with s, but as our etiquette has always given first place to the foreigners within

The debutante world, which by the way increases and decreases in about the same ratio as the budding season approaches, is already having a glimpse of its future prominence. The resumption of dances at the various clubs, in own and suburban, form an important feature now for the youngsters, while the weddings last week and those or which cards are already out brough November have made and will orm a sequence of delightful places to see the verybody who has new clothes and millinery. These acquisitions are most frequent at this time of the year, and undeniably strengthen a pleasant rame of mind.

The pan-American Scientific Concress, which is to meet here December 27 to January 8, opens up social possibilities of an important character. Our courting of this part of the world is assuming such delightful phases that we will soon begin to wonder why we were will soon begin to wonder why we were so long shy over the start. The feminine contingent to accompany the delegates from South and Central America is expected to be large, and the hospitalities to be shown the women will not lack either variety or good taste.

The Cabinet Families.

Mrs. Elkanah N. Waters announces the engagement of her daughter, Kath-erine Elliott and Mr. H. Frederick Begien of Boston. The marriage will take place early in December. The Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. McAdoo are hastening to Washington from the Pacific coast, that they may rejoin their infant daughter, who has been sheltered under the White House roof since their departure. Mr. McAdoo will speak in Chicago tomorrow, and will go to New York to vote, after which he and Mrs. McAdoo will speak in Chicago tomorrow, and will go to New York to vote, after which he and Mrs. McAdoo will speak in Chicago tomorrow, and will go to New York to vote, after which he and Mrs. McAdoo will November 24.

A number of entertainments have been arranged for the Secretary and Mrs. Daniels and their young guest. Miss Haywood will return here tonight, but the Secretary and Mrs. Daniels may remain at An-napolis until tomorrow morning. Miss Haywood will return to Raleigh tomor

The Postmaster General and Mrs. Burleson and the Misses Burleson, entertained at the first of a series of unique dinner parties planned for the winter. The menu for last night's dinner was almost entirely Mexican, prepared from well known recipes, and the decorations were also in the Mexican colors and after the Mexican fashion. Lieut. and Mrs. Joseph William Bunkley, who are guests of the Postmaster General and his family, will complete their visit there today and go to New York for a short time.

The Diplomatic Corps.

The German embassy will be moved mer headquarters at Cedarhurst, Long our gates, the absence of these personages will totally change the character of the formal entertaining in the President's home. Nobody would be a embassy on Massachusetts Avenue terbit surprised if hospitalities there were limited to such occasions as would race. In fact, just as many ways as the administration was told to bring about peace in Mexico could be enumerated in this matter, with the knowledge that the powers had still an unworked idea in the back of its brain. Some day—and presumably it will not be very much longer delayed—we shall get a White House announcement on this interesting topic.

Nobody who is anybody would like to get through another season with last year's clothes, for that would make the construction of the stock on hand show not the friskiness of the two-year-old, but its narrowness, its dinginess and other past signs of grandeur. The considerations may seem small if you have not had to indulge in them, but they become marvelous troubles when fair woman lets them get the upper hand of her mental workings and the main topic of her conversation.

Should Ruling Be Reversed.

Incidentally, now that war seems to be the big part of foreign industry, those who formerly have had the pleasure of entertaining the diplomats, especially the ambassadors, are wondering if the strict rule of their respective sons were present. In other words, or in fact to any dinner party, for instance, at which more than eight persons were present. In other words, the ediplomats had to confine themselves to family satherings contented in the present form or less end in any marked degree during the continued in its present form or less of warring countries during the coming year.
